Senator, Feeling Fine, Leaves New Office to Handle Correspondence

Indication that Senator Penrose will be "big noise" in the presidential campaign was given today when he left an additional suite of offices.

Correspondence is being handled by a special corps of stenographers and clerks who will be retained for it during the campaign.

Senator Penrose has been appointed a member of the executive committee of twenty-one which will handle the Republican campaign. His new offices are in the building occupied by the Republican state committee, at 500 South Broad street.

Senator Penrose is looking and feeling fine, and just itching for the physicians' word allowing him freedom to plunge into the presidential fight.

Mr. Taylor, his confidential secretary and chief-of-staff, said today: "He has completely recovered and is just itching for action. His friends will be surprised and gratified by his physical appearance and health."

Mr. Taylor said that the press of correspondence was so great during convention week that it has not all been caught up to yet. Allowing for this, he said that Senator Penrose holds in politics what more than a suitcase full of clippings were printed in various papers on his condition and activities during the Republican convention.

ICE PICK LEADS TO ARREST

One Taken After Fight Over Judgment Note

A fight over a judgment note, during which an ice pick is alleged to have been used, resulted in the arrest of Joseph Tenaglia, fifty years old, of 814 Chestnut street. He was held under $800 bail for court today by Magistrate Harris in the Second and Christian streets station, charged with assault and battery on Joseph Cirotti, fifty-two years old, of 923 South Eleventh street.

Cirotti is a banker in the downtown section of the city, and declares Tenaglia hit him with the ice pick at his office at 917 South Eleventh street, during the altercation over the note.

880 Succumb in Week, 53 Less Than Total of Previous Seven Days

A big decrease in deaths in this city is shown by the records of the division of vital statistics today. The figures for the week ending yesterday show that 880 persons died, a decrease of 53 from the deaths of last week, and a decrease of 10 from the figures for the week ending June 27, 1919.

MAN GIVES BLOOD IN VAIN TO SAVE LIFE OF HIS FRIEND

Fellow Employee Quickly Volunteers for Transfusion Operation, but Worker, Crushed Between Trucks, Dies When Sacrifice Fails in Its Purpose

The heroic sacrifice of blood by a friend failed to save the life of John Jordan, nineteen years old, 1338 North Warwick street, who was crushed between two motor trucks this morning, died in the Polyclinic shortly after an operation, followed by transfusion of the blood of a devoted friend into his veins.

Louis Fine, twenty-four years old, 746 North Twenty-fourth street, is the man who volunteered to submit to the blood transfusion operation.

Jordan was injured in a strange accident at the garage of the American Railway Express Co., Twenty-second and Ludlow streets, where he works as a helper on a truck. Early today, as he was driving a truck, he was preparing for the first trip out, Jordan started to climb in over the tailboard of the big electric truck on which he works, and in the moment the driver put his key into the control lock. By a mechanical accident so far unexplained the big car shot backwards, crushing Jordan against a truck standing in front of it.

The young man's friends rushed him to the Polyclinic Hospital. The surgeons found he had been severely injured internally, and decided on an immediate operation. The men who had come with Jordan were told that transfusion operation would be necessary later if the youth's life were to be saved, as he had lost a great quantity of blood by internal hemorrhaging.

Fine immediately volunteered. While Jordan was being operated on a test was made of Fine's blood. It was of the right quality for the purpose, and his offer was accepted.

CITY TO PUSH FIGHT ON FARE RISE TO END

Smyth Plans Further Legal Action if P. R. T. Is Granted Increase Effective July 1

NEW TICKETS BEING PRINTED

Should the Public Service Commission decide that the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. may establish its three-cent exchange ticket plan July 1, the city will take other legal steps to prevent the increase in fares, taking effect on that date.

City Solicitor Smyth said today there were two other actions which may be taken by the city. One of these, he said, would be a suit in equity to restrain the company from putting the plan into effect, and the other is a legal step which he would not disclose.

Mr. Smyth spent considerable time studying the acts pertaining to rate increases generally and made this comment on the completion of the task:

"The only phase of the question to be argued before the commission, at Harrisburg on Monday," he said, "is whether the proposed increase can go into effect before the commission has a decision on the question. Incidentally, this is the first time that the phase of question dealing with increased rates for public service has been brought before the commission.

"I will not say anything on the question," he added, "and that is why we cannot say just now what legal route we will take if the commission decides against the city."

Several phases of the entire transit situation will be argued before the commission Monday should the body be willing to hear them at that time.

The city will present argument on its petition that the higher fare rate be suspended until the commission makes a decision on its legality and the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co. makes argument on its contention that the Public Service Commission has no jurisdiction in the matter.

Business Men to File Brief

In addition to these, C. Omer Beasley, counsel for the United Business Men's Association will file a brief with the commission asking for the dismissal of the demurrer entered by the Union Transfer and Warehouse Co., a subsidiary of the Rapid Transit Co.

Mr. Beasley said today he will argue that the Public Service Commission has power to reduce the rentals paid the underlying companies. He asserted that of $13,250,000 net revenue earned by the company, $5,000,000 is paid in rentals to the subsidiaries. No service is rendered the public by the underlying companies for that large sum, Mr. Beasley asserted.

The Rapid Transit Co. today ordered the preparation of plates from which new exchange tickets will be printed for all seventy-two routes in the city.

The three-cent tickets, company officials say, can be turned out in large quantities in a few hours' notice. The work will begin as soon as the Public Service Commission gives its decision.

Company officials are determining the lower exchange rate free transfers shall be issued. It is understood the slips will be given out up to midnight of June 30.

Reports circulated here today were to the effect that all transit plans in future will be submitted to E. T. Stotesbury, chairman of the company's board of directors, before action is taken on such plans.

Mr. Stotesbury objected to the Mitten "no-transfer" plan, estimated to yield $3,000,000 additional revenue. His objection, it is said, was based on a desire to obtain even greater revenue. A flat seven-cent fare was said to be Mr. Stotesbury's alternative.

NO TRANSFERS HITS LINE ON BOULEVARD

Persons living in the northeast are wondering about the promise of free transfers made by the P. R. T. when it first argued in favor of a Roosevelt boulevard franchise. Free transfers were the promise then, and now they are to be abolished under the new plan, leaving residents in that section flat.

In the case of the boulevard line, it was promised as a splendid transfer prospect for employees at the Ribson Cloth Works, Midvale Steel Works, the E. G. Budd Manufacturing Company, Link Belt Engineering Company and other plants in the vicinity. The proposed boulevard line is planned to go through Hunting Park avenue to Twenty-ninth street. This is really in the neighborhood of Twenty-ninth and Allegheny avenue.

People using the line and wanting to go down Twenty-ninth street or any other transfer point will, under the new plan, have to pay their three-cent extra.

In this connection, another section of the city that will have a surprise is the neighborhood along York road, served by Route 65, south of Olney avenue. These residents will pay twenty cents to go one way to Willow Grove, a 100 per cent increase.

It will work out this way: Route 65 runs all the way to Willow Grove, Sundays and holidays. On this line the P. R. T. five-cent fare terminus, going north, is Olney avenue. The other fare to City Line, five cents more to Jenkintown, and another again to the Grove.

Another illustration of the proposed new fare system is the case of the Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets line, where the first five-cent fare zone is City Line, along riders on those lines to go to Willow Grove for fifteen cents and return for the same sum.

Eighty per cent of the crowds using Route 60 on Allegheny avenue receive free transfers, and by actual investigation it is found 75 per cent of the riders use them.

This line runs from river to river. Its patrons will pour a golden stream of free transfers, and by actual investigation the chief transfer points along the route are at Twenty-seventh and Allegheny avenue, at Seventeenth, Ridge avenue, Twenty-second street, Seventeenth street, Germantown avenue, Eighth, Fifth and Second streets, Kensington and Frankford streets, and over the Richmond line.

OUTLINES VIEWS IN LETTERS

Letters outlining his views on the transit situation have been sent to Mayor Moore, Mr. Stotesbury and Thomas E. Mitten, president of the Rapid Transit Co., by L. Budd, head of the Budd Grade Co., 2011 East Lettler street.

Declaring that present reports indicate that the Rapid Transit Co. faces bankruptcy unless additional revenue is obtained, Mr. Budd adds:

"In my opinion, for any municipality to stand by and do nothing under such circumstances is deplorable. An immediate investigation should be made and if more or higher fares are necessary then this should be placed in effect."

Mr. Budd asserted that if Transit Director Twining believes the Taylor plan of high-speed lines is not right, then an adequate substitute should be presented without delay.

Louis Van Riper, Taken in New York, Will Be Brought Here

Louis C. Van Riper, who is said to have run a bucket shop at Fifteenth and Walnut streets until a short time ago, has been arrested in New York, and will be brought here for trial.

Mr. Riper was among fifty persons indicted in New York on charges of using the mails to promote oil and other stock frauds. His specialty here, the police say, was the sale of worthless silver mining stock.

He furnished $20,000 bail in New York on the charges there. He was immediately re-arrested on an indictment found by the grand jury in Philadelphia, charging him and his son, Charles E. Van Riper, twenty-six years old, with operating a bucket shop, grand larceny, conspiracy to defraud, larceny by mail and fraudulent sale of collateral.

The elder Van Riper was continued under $5000 additional bail when arraigned in New York today, charged with being a fugitive from justice. Detectives Cogan and W. Brown, of the Central Station, went to New York to bring him here.

MISSING FIANCE TRUE, SAYS GIRL

Elizabeth Rick, Deserted on Eve of Wedding, Thinks Sweet-heart Is Being Detained

"I know Joe would never stay away from me of his own free will. He is being detained some place," Miss Elizabeth Rick, 251 Hermitage street, Manayunk, who was deserted on the eve of her marriage by Joseph Deegan, is chagrined rather than heart-broken.

But her faith in her sweetheart is unbroken. She wouldn't tell today, though, whether she would marry him or not when he turns up. The marriage was set for Wednesday evening in the Church of the Holy Family.

The waiting, as were the bridesmaids and best man, but the bride and bridegroom were listed as "A. W. O. L." They didn't appear.

"What I want more than anything else is to see Joe vindicated before the world," Miss Rick said. "He stands branded as a runaway now and a man without honor, but such is not the case."

"I know Joe loves me. He told me so very often. Some family complication is back of his disappearance."

The Deegan home is at 2448 North Corlies street. "Joe" is (or was) the sole support of his mother. Mrs. Deegan said today she had tried to get "Beth" to postpone the wedding until September, but that she insisted upon being a June bride.

"No, I won't say whether I'll take up with Joe again when he comes back," Miss Rick said. "This is the second time he and I have been disappointed in love."

"We went together and were virtually engaged about two years ago, but broke it off because of his mother's opposition. Then I went with another fellow and became engaged to him."

"About nine months ago Joe and I became friendly again and later we were re-engaged. Then this affair had to come up and break up our chances of marital happiness."

On Decoration Day Joe pleaded with me to run away with him, and said that he wouldn't go home to his mother without me. I argued with him two hours before I convinced him I was right about waiting, and I took him to his mother's home myself."

Miss Rick isn't the kind of a girl a chap forgets. She is tall and has light brown hair. Her blue eyes were on the verge of filling with tears as she talked today.

Woman's Auto Stolen From Front of Souder's Home

The automobile of a woman who came here from Los Angeles alone in the car on a health tour was stolen early this morning outside the home of Mrs. Lillian Gundry, 3505 Lancaster avenue.

It was later recovered. A negro was arrested. He gave the name of William Peel, thirty-six years old, of 714 North Forty-fifth street.

Clad in corduroy clothing and wearing heavy boots, the dusty traveler from the coast testified against the negro at a hearing before Magistrate Rooney in Central Station. The negro was held in $500 bail for court.
